- youth involvement
- Community outreach, inter- UN chapters engagement
- I'm going to start a model UN at my high school!
- Very Informative
- I'm a college administrator passionate about SDG4 and would love to be on a panel.
- Refugee Matters
- Great agents and data, # to support my ideas and projects
- Advocacy actions with my UNA chapter
- How to combat female discrimination
- It has inspired me to start conversation and be more proactive in the social entrepreneurship and social development sector. Suggestion: Have more direction in terms of were to go and such.
- Otherwise, it's amazing and inspiring.
- Viewing the refugee crisis in America

Engaging communities that aren't typically involved with international community.

I loved the final panel's blunt honesty like last year. Wonderful.

collaborative

Complexities in conflict resolution, esp. Israeli/Palestinian example of youth activity-high points of the day was the youth engagement, would've like more advocacy info and tools. Maybe even Mel speaking to the group

Broader perspective, inspiration from Kathy Calvin, Hamida Ahmed

There were very good speakers that we may invite to out UN Day in Dallas

We (Dallas chapter) need to offer more educational programs on a monthly basis, need to organize a toolkit. "Program in a box" so that YPs and others have a structure to work from. We need to be more visible in the Dallas-Fort Worth area wit timely programming use technology, mass text to reach out to state reps.

Change the narrative surrounding refugees, look into adopt-a-future campaign, reach out to youth observer.

Deeper understanding of the role the UN plays globally and how it operates.

2030 vision to end child marriage

Learning about a new preventative measures UN would like to take apart of.

How to develop the new UNA chapter at my university and engage the members more

I gained more info about how the UN works as an organization

Engaging youth it'll help me to forward the role of youth message to other youth people who're really interested to join and serve through the UN. Please try to offer scholarships for students especially international ones. Excellent day!

From Jeff- the efforts being made to "prevent" conflicts- Need the speech. Jeff spoke "to" and not "down" to the audience. The 90's saw the growth of peacekeeping- Hopefully, the 2010's and the 2020's will see the growth of "conflict prevention" as- just as Jeff pointed out- enormous energy would be liberated if we had fewer conflicts. The young are full of energy. As for diplomats-very diplomatic.

The concept of prevention needs to be better communicated.

I want to start a chapter at NYU

More clarified aspects of sustainable development goals

Actively advocate for the UN and US involvement by reaching out to policy makers

I want to get involved in my community and go overseas to help in any way I can, especially with conflict prevention because that is what I most interested in.

We should utilize technology to reach out to more people.

2020 or bust app

To speak out more, the UNA and UN need young people like me and my mates to continue to fight for what we believe in.

reach out to congress members

Yes, I'm deeply concerned about no funding in conflict prevention. I will do further research and participate in the cause.

Share this platform with other local communities and colleges all over NYC and not leaving anyone left out. Gain knowledge about UNA and get involved

Understanding that the refugee crisis is not a crisis but a crisis of collaboration, compassion, and cooperation.

New events ideas/inspiring campaigns

In humanitarian way and the strong connection between the US and the UN.

I will continue to serve as an advocate

I will take what I learned and return back to my hometown and educate my NGO and other NGOs.

I learned more about the Security Council and role of the UN in a conflict

Yes, but they should gain new info about people with disabilities.

Interesting stories, info about resources

I feel genuinely inspired to use my voice and skill set to support the UN's effort, especially through my interest in health policy.

I gained knowledge about how to join the UN movement in day to day life by spreading awareness, engaging community members, and beginning conversations wit youth and peers.

Increase female representation I both the UN and US ex: Secretary General and President

Participation and outreach

Learn about Global Compact on Migrants/Refugees-due 2028- negotiations started

Engaging with representatives trough community action (sharing statistics)

The technology -texting- it was easy to do and simple to share with other that wouldn't necessarily want to spend too much time and effort.

Youth perspectives quite insightful;continue to energize young adults and you start up a chapter at Brooklyn College, get more involved with the UNA and gain resources

Youth engagment and advocacy

Yes, I've learned a lot and have been exposed to new ideas

Start dialogues; dialogues start movements; movements influence senators. The US needs to continue being a player in UN!!

Better understanding of the UN to inform others

Engaging youth

Prove our support by working to advocate. Advocating the US necessary role in the Foundation Core of the UN and all Humans.

refugee situation

Information on function and importance of US funding/support of UN. Continue to speak out.

I believe that the new information has inspired me to take more action on a local level.

Great information to bring to my chapter and membership in DC

Discuss advocacy efforts for potential change and consult politicians in regards to not scaling back UN funding.

Have conversations with people to spread awareness

Motivation to take more action

How to get involved in making a changes locally and globally

New ways to approach advocacy efforts

Social Media

gained a broader perspective about SDGs and how to make them successful bring to my high school classroom (I'm a teacher), work with local refugee aid coalition

All ways

New ways to reach out to my community

These panels reinforce the reality of these crises and advocates for it so it's really informative and helpful. If there are people in official position of power, who acknowledge these issues and have plans to make it better, then there is hope and strength one can find to support and, work in and for these institutions.

Change the narrative from division to unity and compassion on important issues!

Contact Congress, utilize social media, implementing education, keep giving pins out! Maybe at one point bring a prime minister (far stretch).

Ideas for upcoming local UNA chapter to achieve recognition for displaced humans on a global local level

Many things caught my attention, but taking action to develop new ways to help climate change, as a team to improve our environment and make it a safer planet environment for all. And Gender equality, the idea of women empowerment, advocate that women are strong and very much capable to do many things to change society.

emailing senators/knowing the twitters of the UN

As an artist who work in the publishing industry, I like hearing how different skills (outside of Int'l Relations, politics, etc.) can do their part too.

Have Gen UN in my college

how to become more involved on my campus and engage/start the conversation about important global issues

I have some idea I can help out the community around my school

Listening to the panelists, especially Hamida Ahmed, has strengthened my resolve to work on starting up my NPOINGO back at home country, Nigeria.

we contact congresspersons to support UN funding.

From the perspectives of high level experts

Adopt a future program

Community engagement matters and there is hope.

Importance of narratives, dialogues, advocacy connect in local chapter, volunteer at UNA events, become aware of problems

That we still have hope, even in these turbulent times.

A few new ways to get involved and new outlook on the refugee crisis

I plan to include speakers and some of their comments in this year's 10th Annual West Coast Global Forum 9/25/2017 in LA.

I realized just how essential the U.S. is within the UN.

Resources shared by panelists especially youth panel.

new app on climate change and new ideas for our next general membership meeting more community advocacy and cooperation

Kathy Calvin's arguments are the same year to year 0.1% of $3.65T is $3.65B for $1T in return.

how to effectively conduct advocacy actions

I learned about new ways to act to reach specific SDGs and learned about resources.

The UN is a vital tool for countries like the U.S. to speak with other nations.

Get youth involvement to help your case!

Beautiful to see dynamic visionary youths take responsibility as a young person to open up dialogue and perhaps start a UNA chapter.

Talk to people about the importance of the UN to the US and the US to the UN gained insight into the linguistics of diplomacy. Great final panel!!

learned more about USA-UNA and plan to get involved, focus on education and female empowerment.

partnering with UN on conflict prevention

The US has an obligation to support UN effort especially in regards to conflict prevention and migrant/refugee support. I really enjoyed the conversation about the issues with refugee camps and will be doing more research into the topic.

"It's not a refugee crisis, it's coordination/compassion problem"

I will try to encourage others to get more involved with the UN and social movements.

contact alma mater to consider accepting refugee

New energy into the mission I was burnt out due to the current US political situation but now I have a better idea what to do and where i can go for support.

I see that having more involvements in colleges could be a great thing

Increased engagement and unique method of engaging people

By hearing these speakers talking about their experiences and how the youth can help.

I learned how important it is to directly contact your representatives and let them know what the people want.

I learned so much that I will take back to DC.

I'm glad I attended!

Refugee vetting and resettling procedure; increasing diversity in the workplace.

Collaboration at a state level or region, not just local to gain momentum.

Using initiatives mentioned today at Lehigh University.

I was very moved by the refugee speaker and I would like to help with the adopt-a-future program.

Young college students participate more and more every year

Ways to engage youth in advocacy efforts

Helping address the crisis of narrative

Come up with new ideas in the Mount Sinai chapter of UNA.

With educational ideas

Working on a community partnership and form stronger ties.

My campus chapter, Michigan State University, has gained new ideas and is greatly encouraged.

Very applicable and nice for future engagement with the community

Expand UNA-USA Mid-Hudson Valley membership and activities

Learned new ways of fundraising

New info encouraging different perspectives on refugees, climate change, and conflict resolution. Also inspirational to using social media to incite change and begin discussion.

Adopt-a-Future Info

It was a great to learn how we can advocate to our government

Other comments?

Reach out for follow up activities

I love time today! I had a really good time. I was really influential. Thank you!

The programs were very good. The emotional aspect of it: Refugees.

Great program; very informative

Check in was atrocious! Flight was late- so couldn't check-in the night before. Got on line early Friday. Guard was very rude-kept sending us across the street (wrong instructions) UNA folks didn't show up with passes until after 8 and it was COLD outside. I am old and disabled! I would have loved to have helped with that. I worked at the United Nations for 10 years when Dag H. and Athant were SGS.

The US should and must play a significant role in resolving the Israeli and Palestinian conflict.

Displaced humanity panel started off very inspirational, but overall lacked specificity to address issues and appeared naïve. I encourage all panels to get specific and be realistic. "Slacktivist" actions (sending tweets/form emails) to IS Congress is ineffective. Including more effective communication techniques would be helpful! Also, morning registration was chaotic. Was not well communicated or executed. Next time, signs and advanced notice would help. Simply sitting on benches was difficult to process.

Diplomacy session was high abstracted and vague and therefore not very informative. Mr. Laurenti was extraordinarily crude and unprofessional as well as dismissive towards attendees

Need more structure for taking questions especially for last panel

Big congrats/profound thank to Executive Director Chris Whitney provide videos and all power points to reference

I found it informative to learn about refugees' issues, the programs offered through UNICEF and environmental changes that people can take to help environment.

Role of UN in Conflict Prevention Panel- Too long. Moderator was not respectful while members asked questions

The moderator of the last panel was a little abrasive with participants.

Questions for last segment (conflict prevention) were very interesting

Allow more time to answer questions. Background info required, not yes/no answers.

It would be great if there were a little bit more time for questions during the panels

We need to make this a little more active (sitting panel after panel is very exhausting)

The day started with rhetoric-which is speaking to the choir. Always valuable, but we are here (or I am) to hear specifics, techniques, strategies. As the day progressed, especially the last 4 panels, the rhetoric gave way to more detailed information (increased knowledge) and some strategies (RJ's comments about getting a seat at the table). Perhaps next year, a series of practical breakout workshops so we are actively participating, and we get to know partners from other states. I think we need to be careful about using the term 'American Leadership'. It gives the impression of America being the boss. And it goes against the multilateral nature of the UN. Will next year's theme be 70 years UDHR?

Excellent, thanks to all

Fantastic opening by Chris Whatley-get that recording saved! More WFUNA representation! Our one WFUNA speaker was great! So great to have the opportunity to be in the UN General Assembly, was an unforgettable experience Thank you so much and keep up the great work!

Very well organized, great day. Would love to hear Gillian Sarensen next year. Great closing remarks by chair Teta Banks Chris Watley was wonderful today!

A little disappointed that 22 questions from males were asked (3 from the same person), and only 13 from females.

Laurenti was rather rude at points during Q&A; but overall it was a great experience.

There should be a job fair during lunch time

Please have more speakers on Donald Trump & far right or just have people like Trump speak

The moderator for Role of the UN in Conflict Prevention was very rude.

Where did you find the moderator? (Role of the UN in Conflict Prevention), Good explanation of importance of SDGs.

Role of the UN in Conflict Prevention-very monotone, lacked enthusiasm for the topic-moderator very abrasive and mildly rude

Please, avoid calling Jeffery Laurenti as a moderator again

Role of the UN in Conflict Prevention- it's better to address a few questions holistically than to try to rush them. Jeffery Laurenti was kinda rude, but Hamida Ahmed was remarkable, loved her! Maybe for next year, provide an opportunity for UNA members to interact with other chapters, to allow college students to interact with adults in UNA community.

Role of the UN in Conflict Prevention- moderator was disorganized, cut off questions.

I loved hearing from the ambassadors!

Failure to answer policy specific question by panelist Rachel Snow. Complete disregard to question (by a refugee) by moderator Peter Bartolo on what actions the UN is pursuing with regard to addressing the refugee crisis at root cause, the conflict surrounding countries. My major criticism still lies with the lack of attention specific UN processes for addressing issues. The man telling the moderators who to allow question from allowed nothing but idealistic question with a realistic solution outside UN's scope of activity. If you people want to educate people about the UN, tell people what it actually gets done. Mention Redd, or the coordination of NGOs. Until last month my brother (22) was sure the UN existed on some island somewhere. After I told him about how it work he just stopped caring about it. It turned into another congested institution for him. By sticking to normative questions in in ideologically homogenous group like those who attended this discourse is stifled. The argument lies in the details.

Perhaps make the information more rigorous, encourage speakers to go into details

Jeffery Laurenti was a very poor discussion leader. He generalized questions and laughed off serious inquiry

Jeffery Laurenti can't do another panel next year as he is consistently disrespectful, confusing, and inconsiderate

Jeffery Laurenti is a bully. he should not participate anymore. Morning Keynote-worst speech

Role of the UN in Conflict Prevention-Bad Moderator

Displaced Humanity- Ran too long, crowd lost interest. Engaging Youth- Excellent, it was refreshing to hear what the panelists had to say about working as young public intellimats. I was disappointed with Mr. Laurenti's moderation of the last panel he listened poorly and interjected too often. Mr Laurenti also added too much of his own commentary, leaving insufficient time for questions.

I wish they would have given more info as to how student can get more involved (specific)

Good to reaffirm out commitment to UN, reenergize, and refocus.

Jeffery Laurenti was rude to the audience and those asking the questions. I feel that this was unprofessional for him to react to those who asked questions. It was very rushed at the end. It wasn't fair to cut people off of their questions. They just had wanted to ask and get it answered. Some of us travel very far to enjoy this. But other than that it was a good conference.

last session revealed tough issues that the speakers avoided answering them

I am glad to have such a nice opportunity to attend this event.

Morning Keynote-very through, great job. Road to 2030- The panel was great, thank you Rachel Snow. Thank you for a great experience at the UN!

I sincerely appreciated the panel on displaced humanity and Ms. Hamida Ahmed's story. Her story brought me to tears and was an important reminder for me on why we are all here and why we all do this important work. This is my first member's day and I am so proud to be apart of the UNA-USA.

Morning Keynote-did not add or name people with disabilities for political affairs. US and UN-Not enough time to ask. Engaging Youth- Too long. What that events/speakers be creative with people with disabilities.

more breakout session

I would have like the youth panel to have been longer and more engaging. While the panel regarding the role of the UN in Conflict was significant and important, it was lengthier than I expected. I was personally more interested in hearing about youth engagement and opportunities for young profession, so I was slightly disappointed more attention was not given to that topic. Otherwise, I think all the panels discussed incredibly crucial issues, ranging various aspects of the UN, and as a whole, this day has encouraged my to continue learning about international and global affairs, and how every component of humanity and human rights is connected. Also, I was incredibly impressed by the panelists' credentials and efforts tat every speaker made in support of the UN. It is amazing to know that some of our leaders are so committed to furthering the global goals.

I thoroughly enjoyed this event- I felt honored to be able to participate and sit in the General Assembly Hall. The panel discussion were extremely engaging and the speaker throughout the day di a great job of instilling a sense of responsibility in all of us to be part of the movement and contribute, in our own capacities, toward accomplishing the sustainable development goals. Thank you very much to the organizers of this event and I intend on attending member's day for years to come!

Please, do not hold this event in Feb during wintertime in NYC. Trying to navigate the subway system and walk around the city in near freezing temperatures is highly uncomfortable.

More questions taken from high school student, maybe allow live tweeting to ask questions of speakers and panelists. Would have like opportunities to ask questions of UN Foundation. I believe there should be more interaction or discussion/focus groups between youth observer and college chapters.

moderating q's (allot time to allow thoughtful response from panelist and an estimate of the # of q's for moderators to allow this).

Thank you :)

THANK YOU!

The conflict prevention panel was VERY poorly moderated.

Displaced Humanity: Kamal Ama Krane is a great speaker. Would to hear him again. Conflict Prevention: Covered a lot of ground. Loved being in GA hall, please thank Maher Nasser.

The last panel was conflict prevention? Israel-Palestine? Very Confusing. Found the moderator ineffective and to "chummy". He lost the audience early on. Frustrating that this is the longest session, with very little audience participation. It would have been time better spent on women, youth, education, migration, the SDGs. The moderator is dreadful. His dismissiveness of Nicole's question on settlements in the West Bank : "whatever", beyond disrespectful and unprofessional. I'm so glad that conversation came up around women and gender equality, but it might have been poignant to have a specific panel/session on SDG #5. Also overall, the panelists and speakers were male with only one woman per two men. The last panel had no women. Why is it that conversations of security so rarely include women? Also most questions came from men, including the same guy three times. That's disrespectful. It would be very helpful to provide a list of nearby lunch spots. This could be available online prior to the program. A short lunch window (with tours and exhibitors) would have benefited from some established suggestions in the vicinity. Thank you all for your hard work in putting together this fabulous program. See you back in DC!

enjoyed talk on social justice and human rights

Thank you and please doing this and all your great work!

Process for getting pass in morning was pretty chaotic.

Fabulous use of the General Assembly hall! Thanks for all the organization-good program-good issues. and mostly strong presenters. It would be good to have DC Leadership dates announced as a follow up to this.

Exploration of refugee crisis/ importance of conflict resolution stimulating, research driven data well-educated presenters with compassion.

Engaging Youth in the UN was the greatest panel! Is it possible for me to get the contact info for panelist?

Conflict Prevention- I learned nothing! You took more questions from men than women. I know it's not on purpose but there needs to be a balance. Also Jeffery could do better!

Jeffery Laurenti needs to learn some manners. Less Trumpery please! Jeffery Feltman-excellent!

Thank you for an amazing experience, I appreciated hearing from leaders and students that expanded my perspectives. I'm extremely motivated by all of the panels especially the UNA youth panel with Jake Horowitz, JP, and Tory. I would have loved to hear more about their work at the grassroots level. Thanks :)

US and UN-I wish it was longer. Youth-Great, great panel. Conflict Prevention- The moderator seemed a little mean/rude at time in the Q+A. Thank you so much for putting this on.

I found Mr. Laurenti to be rather brash and rude at times.

Good job

Really enjoyed Kamal Ama Krane- have him back next year!!!

Have more guys like the ones in the Conflict Resolution panel Members Day was very good and inspiring. As a young person, it was nice to hear from people closer to my age (19). Hamida Ahmed was very interesting to hear from because refugees do not usually get to tell their stories to people who will listen. Nicole Perez was also very helpful. Engaging the Youth was my favorite panel and Q+A. It was good to feel inspired, after failing so much. The ambassador was also very helpful in showing people the problem with religious conflict.

It's incredibly disappointing to have traveled some distance, being someone who's very interested in IR and the UN's role, and not being exposed to anything novel or seriously stimulating. I don't feel as if I learned anything today.

Registration website cancelled my ticket, use a different site next year?

I would like guidance for the same

Will settlements really create peace? Is treatment in Palestine really fair? Since 1948 Israel has grown bigger and bigger, stealing land but yet get no punishment. Is that what the UN is for?

Wish more about US/UN relations (because of theme, not because personal), maybe more engagement activities.

I wish UNA can help students cover at least some part of flight, housing, and food in NYC.

Jeffery Laurenti was a rude moderator. Ruined that session

Role of the UN in Conflict Prevention moderator was unprofessional.

I had an amazing time here!

Refreshments and networking refreshments please:)

I would like to host a session titled "Speak Out World" where attendees express their primary UN-related interests/challenges/concerns (not only asking questions) Thank you for a great day!

What a great opportunity to be in the GA. Conflict Prevention-They "lost" us, was a bit "boring", more questions from audience would have been helpful. 2030-Gave new as well as veteran UNA members something to learn, it is a delicate balance which was artfully done!! Thank you. Youth-Energizing to see youth play a role in our future, give me hope!! The GA Maps were pretty cool touches. :) This was a great experience that allowed all levels of engagement. Moderator of last panel was "fair".

Laurenti was rude and inept. Jeffery Laurenti was an abrasive, rude, and incompetent moderator. His actions poorly reflect the UNA and demonstrate a lapse in an otherwise productive conference. This man repeatedly interrupted and cut off speakers, interjected out-of-place commentary, and spoke in a condescending manner. In no way was his involvement appropriate and, at the very least, he should be heavily reprimanded for his actions, if not asked to leave his position, "whatever" that may be. I would take this seriously!

Mr. Laurenti was should not have said several things and was impossibly rude!

Jeffery was very rude and actively made me cringe dozens of times- he should never be allowed to speak at an event like this (or any event in general) again.

1.) Need a better system for Q+A. Need a more fair format so people don't get overlooked and so others don't get 2 questions. 2.) More breakout groups during the break to foster more discussion.

Question selection for audience was a challenge (and biased vs the book)

I like the discussion part of the different sessions. It would be nice to have more time for Q+A.

Please devise a better system for Q+A. Several students/members spoke multiple times, while some were not chosen once. Perhaps offer breakout sessions with individual speakers in smaller groups/sessions.

Thanks for all the great information

Thank you

Panelist response were vague and I would have appreciated more response of how instead of what, more detailed content, info, less fluff and repetition. Thank you!

Conflict Prevention-Speaker did not speak much on conflict prevention.

Last panel was poorly moderated. Don't cram a million questions in 6 minutes. Fewer Qs, more details.

One thing that needed to be directly addressed, but wasn't, was the Trump administration. I understand taking a non-political stance and remaining neutral but nearly everything that has been done with the new administration directly contravenes the UN charter. This is an issue that can't be bogged down with bureaucracy and I had hope it would be addressed directly. All of our communities and chapters are immediately affected by President Trump's administration. We need tools and resources to make sure that we can continue advocating for the UN in a proactive manner.

Conflict Prevention- Panelist were great, moderator was awful

What can we do to convince President Trump that the UN's role in the world is important in terms of: human rights/refugee crisis, social responsibility, and climate warming. I won't add the rest of the sustainable goals because that would be too much for him to understand!

It is noticeable when some speakers aren't actively engaged about what they are speaking about. Sustainable development goals in particular. Very good panel discussion but perhaps people should click in for questions and text them in so more answers can be answered.

bad moderator and last panel rushed

Conflict Prevention- The Moderator (Jeffery) was annoying and did not foster an open and educational environment.

Wish session were more focused. Breakouts v. panels? Moderator Jeffery Laurenti was incredibly rude and condescending to both the speakers and audience. Was completely shocked by his crass behavior. Considering he moderated the ambassador panel, one I was looking forward to, I was disappointed.

Laurenti seemed pretty rude with Q+A
